

Because the Recording Industry Association of America's current methods of fighting digital music piracy have worsened their reputation, they should begin to consider turning to new ways of stopping piracy, such as shutting down the file-sharing websites that enable it.

Because human cloning promotes fear in the eyes of different religious and political groups, has a high rate of failure in creating an embryo, and threatens to find a way on how to overpopulate the Earth, any form of human cloning should be banned.

Because nuclear weapons are a necessity for keeping the United States safe from terrorist threats coming from Pakistan, North Korea, Iran, or any other unforeseen terrorist threats that are unknown as of now, the United States should never reduce their nuclear weapons stockpile to zero.

Because abstinence-only programs fail to provide high school students with education about and how to use contraceptives, obtaining birth control, and preparing students for real life situations, comprehensive sex education should be stressed for all schools to teach in order to have a potential impact on the rates of teen pregnancies and STD's in the U.S.

Because euthanasia is the premature death of a person with the assistance of a doctor or physician, and is performed after multiple sober requests from that person, the procedure should not be limited as an option for terminally ill patients only, but rather, a universally accepted act available for all people.

Because many teen students are likely to become sexually active during the teenage years, public schools should offer comprehensive sex education in order to protect teen students from unwanted pregnancies, STDs, and the physical and emotional consequences of engaging in sexual intercourse.

Because actors and actresses have a major influence on the decisions and choices children and teens decide to make, movies designed for children for example G, PG, and PG-13 should be banned from containing the use of any tobacco products.

Because the United States has a higher teen pregnancy rate than most countries around the world, and "abstinence only" education programs are clearly not effective, high schools should convert to a program that provides students with information about sex and access to contraceptives.

Because in Oregon the Death with Dignity Act allows physicians to adequately medicate terminally ill patients to avoid suffering but in other U.S. states physician assisted suicide is not legalized and terminally ill patients are needlessly suffering, physician assisted suicide should be legalized in all of the United States for terminally ill patients.
